Men of the USS Aeolus ARC - 3

We were a young and hearty crew
Who knew actually what to do
While laying miles and miles of cable,
Then our hands were strong and stable.
Around the US and her possessions
Amid cheers of loud elations
We laid it high and we laid it low
Everywhere that cable should go.

Faces tanned and wind in our hair
Strong as Aeolus, but not as fair.
We learned to catenary, the tension right.
Oh, we laid that cable day and night.
Out of commission on the bottom of the sea
That is where she is and will always be.
The men of the Aeolus have gone to the winds,
But with computers, 'phones, and reunions we meet again.

-by Chief Campbell and his mate, Loey
